THE EDITOR'S CORNER

Election Tuesday

Tuesday is Election Day and the important matter of who shall represent the town of Sangerfield on the Oneida County Board of Supervisors, for the next two years will be settled.

H. Lawrence Ridings, present incumbent, is opposed by George Jackson, Stockwell farmer. A record vote is anticipated.

In the town of Marshall, Supervisor William R. Small, chairman of the Board, will be re-elected as he is unopposed.

On the county ticket there is considerable interest in the election of a justice of the Supreme Court.

Gay H. Brown of Utica was appointed by Governor Roosevelt to fill a vacancy and he has made a good record during the short time he has been in office. Mr. Brown is a candidate for the office and he is opposed by Edmund H. Lewis, Syracuse attorney.

There are two suggestions to residents we would like to make:

First, be sure to vote. Our system of government can only function satisfactorily when each and every citizen accepts this responsibility. The "stay-at-home" doesn't assist much in running the government.

Second, vote correctly. Despite the fact that voting machines are open for inspection and instruction previous to election, a certain number of citizens go to the polls each year and vote inaccurately either voiding their ballots or casting votes for the wrong candidate.

In conclusion, vote on the amendments. There are five propositions, all important. Study them, decide ahead of time whether you want to vote yes or no, jot down your decision on a slip of paper and take it to the polls with you.

Then vote and vote correctly.

The Reason Why

We have been interested in certain criticisms which have come to us regarding the news published in The Times and we are only too glad to answer them.

Several readers have mentioned the fact that we are printing considerable news about the new central district school and others believe we say too much about the Cherry Valley Turnpike.

Let us discuss the school proposition first. Every single taxpayer and every single parent is interested in the education of the young people of our village for the boys and girls of today become the community leaders of tomorrow.

A prominent banker in a nearby city said recently, "Securing the new school in Waterville is the most important move made in your community in 50 years."

There is also another side to the "school" question. The Times covers this section of the state and the farm people and the residents of nearby villages are interested in what is going on in Waterville. These people are unable to visit the village daily or even weekly and it is only through the columns of The Times that they can keep posted on current matters.

Now as regards the Cherry Valley Turnpike, it is the only transcontinental route crossing New York State and it is a route chosen by the traveling public going either east or west.

An automobile load of people can not very well traverse a 135 mile stretch, such as the Albany-Syracuse route, without spending money. It is necessary to purchase gas, oil and parts, and many tourists like the section so well, they stop over night.

The section of the turnpike in Oneida and Madison counties receives its full share of traffic and of the "new money" left by tourists.

And this "new money" circulates, much of it coming to our

Girl Scouts

Last Wednesday afternoon was a red letter day in the history of Pine Cone Troop One, for on that day the Junior Patrol, Vine by name, was presented by Lieut. Helen Korbel and received into membership. In addition to the ten names listed last week, Anna Gray has been transferred from Troop Three and is the leader of the new patrol. There were 32 present. The complete ceremonial with Mary Templeton as flag bearer and Esther Lloyd as song leader. One little guest, Doris Fuess, carried the troop flag. It was decided in patrol corners to have a breakfast hike the following morning, weather permitting. All reported having cooked meals during Girl Scout Week. Eleanor Lewis' patrol, the Pineapples, were all in uniform, which was commended as the girls have been careless about wearing uniforms lately. Over half of the fifth year of "Pine Cone's" existence has already passed and thirteen members have not missed a meeting.

Last Thursday morning twenty-two members of Troop One went on a breakfast hike to the grove back of the Hubfrey Hughes home. It was the new Junior Patrol's first initiation into the joys of a troop meal out of doors and they were out in full force.

A fine big fire, for which all had brought material, enabled the picnickers to cook their bacon and hot dogs and heat their cocoa. Under the compulsion of out-door appetites, the "eats" disappeared like magic.

Songs were sung and some even tried to dance on the sloping ground. After Dilys had posed the group to her satisfaction and had taken a souvenir picture, all hiked homeward. Pine Cone Troop One had had another happy time.

Last Friday evening Genevieve Wright and Eleanor Lewis entertained their patrols at a barn dance in Frank Wright's paint shop. The concrete floor was fine for dancing and old and new favorites were indulged in to the music of the victrola. Many farmers and farmerettes were present and some of the costumes showed weirdly the styles of a former day. With plenty of dancing and cider and doughnuts, the affair was pronounced a huge success. Two Rome Girl Scouts, Margaret and Caroline Rosenberg, were also present.

Sanger Lodge Entertains Members of O. E. S.

The members of Crystal Chapter, No. 188, Order Eastern Star, were guests of Sanger Lodge, F. & A. M., at a banquet given at the Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening. One hundred and twenty-five partook of the repast.

A program was given following the banquet, Past Master Fred B. Jones acting as master of ceremonies.

The Exchange Club Orchestra furnished music during the program.

Short talks were given by W. Henry Suters, master of Sanger Lodge, Mrs. Annie Lloyd, matron of Crystal Chapter; Mrs. Bird M. Lawrence, district deputy grand matron; Howard Curtis, Mrs. Stella Hamblin, W. G. McLean, past patron, and Mrs. Mary McLean, past matron of Crystal Chapter.

H. Gerald Coggeshall rendered vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. T. H. Townsend and group singing was also enjoyed.

The orchestra was composed of Dr. Lynn MacConnell, Mrs. Lee MacConnell, Aubrey Williams and Howard Adlington.

A short playlet, "Picking Nuts," completed the interesting program.

Peter Waldburger Sells Farm

Peter Waldburger has sold his 70 acre farm located one and one-half miles east of Waterville on the county road to Norman Cowen. The farm has an excellent set of buildings, silo, woods, fruit and stream through the pasture. Mr. Cowen will obtain immediate possession. Mr. Waldburger has taken in exchange as part of the purchase price the Jones house and lot on Elm street. The Huntington & Tyler Co., Inc., Real Estate Company consummated the transaction.

community. Paint is purchased to brighten up tourists' homes. Plumbing fixtures, wallpaper, lumber, etc., are all used and indirectly every one in the community profits.

We believe we are helping our community by boosting its assets. We are glad to have constructive criticisms and when we find we are wrong, we shall be only too glad to "about face."

As the matter now stands, however, we still believe it is for the best interest of our community to give publicity to the new school and the Cherry Valley Turnpike.

Radio Talk Today

At 2 p. m. today, over Station WIBX, Utica, the Times editor will broadcast a talk on the big celebration held in Waterville November, 1887, when the railroad was first opened from Utica.

Nearly 10,000 people attended the big event, including officials from the city to the north. There will also be a musical program in connection with the Waterville program.

Faulkner—Cahow

Charles Faulkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Faulkner of Oriskany Falls, and Miss Edna Cahow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cahow of this village were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage, last Wednesday evening, Rev. David W. Bunville officiating. The simple ring ceremony was used. Accompanying the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Faulkner.

The happy couple will reside at Oriskany Falls, following a short honeymoon.

MOVIES

The feature movie for Saturday, November 2, will be "The Gate Crusher," with Glenn Tryon, Patsy Ruth Miller and T. Roy Barnes.

On Tuesday, November 5, the main picture is "Telling the World," featuring William Harris.—advertisement.

WHY WOMEN TRADE HERE The smart woman knows that she can call up the grocery store, have her order courteously taken over the telephone, and receive her groceries promptly without the slightest error made in fulfilling the order. That is why so many women are patrons of the store. They also know that the quality of the groceries we sell is unquestionable.
