WATERVILLE, Sept. 7th.—Two weeks ago there was opened in the Berrill block, on Main street, Waterville, the sale of the Chicago Bankrupt Clothing Company and since that time they have been doing rushing business.

A New Appropriation May Move Utica's White Elephant. The State Canal Board has had much trouble in devising plans for the successful operation of the canal lift bridge at Genesee street in Utica. Plans were approved at a meeting of the board Wednesday for new machinery and other improvements for that bridge, involving a long time and a cost of $3,000, which, it is thought, will do away with the difficulties.

State Engineer and Surveyor Adams was seen with reference to the action of the board. He said there was nothing new to be added regarding the plan adopted, but he would take time to finish the bridge he did not care to say. The additional cost due to the change of plans will be about $3,200. Although all the appropriation has been exhausted the work will be prosecuted without delay, this action of the Canal Board being viewed by the attorney general as giving the contractor a valid claim for his services when he appears before the State Board of Claims for his extra compensation.

The Oriskany Depot Burglarized. The Central depot at Oriskany was visited by burglars about midnight Tuesday, entrance being effected by prying open a window. The door leading to the office and the one leading outside were forced, the latter presumably to facilitate the escape of the thieves if they should be discovered. The money drawer in the office was relieved of all the cash it contained, about $1,500. Charles Jones, the townman, thinks he heard the thieves in the tool house securing tools with which to force their way into the depot building, but being unarmed and unable to leave his duties he did not cause an alarm. Detective Latham of the Central road was in Oriskany Wednesday, endeavoring to secure a clue upon which to work.
