

Armed Man Drives Employes from Bakery, Oil Mixture Poured on Bread

OWNER DENIES ANY THREAT RECEIVED

Armed with a revolver and wearing a mask, a man early this morning entered the bakery of Duane Thompson, 111 Jay, and forced two bakers into an adjoining garage while a companion poured a mixture of gasoline and oil over 150 loaves of bread.

The men left the place without giving any explanation for their visit to the bakery workmen, Carl Schneider, 111 Jay, and Tommie Parson, 111 Chatham. Police said they had heard rumors of a racket in East Utica, but after an investigation extending over several days had been unable to find any evidence to support them.

Police were inclined to believe that Thompson was a victim of a racket and he stated that he had never received any threats and never had any out-prices. He was, however, adding to the bakery at the time.

Formerly located at Home

The bakery proprietor told police he previously conducted a bakery at Home and four months ago moved to Utica and took over the Jay St. shop, which had been idle for years.

Salvador told Detective Carl Wilkinson that a short man, wearing a dark suit and dark cap about a foot and a half in height, and weighing about 145 pounds, entered the bakery shortly after 2 a. m. and put his fingers to his lips as a signal to keep quiet. He then hit and the other bakers to keep quiet or he would shoot them, according to Salvador.

They captured the man who entered the place committed the act.

Detectives Ralph Colon and Louis Colonato were sitting in the investigation today.

SPEAKER VIEWS SLUM AS GREAT CRIME BREEDER

His formula for cleaning up juvenile delinquency and making the American nation a better place to live given here today by Frank Joseph Loesch, Chicago lawyer, author, inventor of the term "public enemy" and the man who was responsible for starting Al Capone on his way to prison.

"We will never make the melting pot," Loesch said, "until we have cleaned up our slums. And built a sounder program for the prevention of juvenile delinquency. It is in these un-Americanized areas that our government is not working and it is in these same places, crowded, filthy and unhealthy, that juvenile delinquency breeds."

Suggests Remedies

Loesch suggested this three-fold program for the crowded areas: 1. Improvement of public schools; 2. greater recreational facilities; 3. more and better religious teaching.

There is no question that gangsters come out of the slums," he said. "It does not matter about the race. That's not the problem in crime. It's the slum conditions. Take these same people out of the slums and they will commit far less crime."

Before giving his scheduled address on "Americanism" before the Rotary Club this noon at the Utica, Loesch recounted his part in bringing the Capone gang to justice.

"My first step was to invent the name 'public enemy,'" he said. "I listed 25 of them with Capone as No. 1."

The speaker said that this labeling of the criminals aided in bringing public opinion and made the work of rounding up the gang easier.

Then he went after gangsters through our investigation and get our chutes on the gang," he said. "In his address, Loesch discussed the difficulty of governing cities with a heterogeneous population with the American-born showing a decrease and the foreign-born an increase.

In Chicago, the 1930 census showed that 51 per cent of the population was non-English speaking," he said.

Loesch came into prominence three decades ago when in 1903 and 1904 he was named special state attorney for Cook County to investigate and prosecute friends committed in the direct primary.

Investigated Crime

Again in 1923 he was chief special assistant to the general of Illinois in direct charge of special grand jury investigations into murders, bombings, kidnappings and other violence and frauds in connection with elections. In a similar capacity he was engaged a few years earlier to investigate irregularities and financial expenditures in the sanitary department of Chicago.

President Hoover named him in 1924 as one of 11 members of the National Commission on Law Enforcement and Enforcement. He holds several honorary degrees.

Was Born in Buffalo

Loesch believes that upstate New York has some of the most beautiful scenery to be seen anywhere in the United States and maintains a summer home in Cooperstown. He is a native of Buffalo.

Loesch, who is a Republican, has long been active with his party. He has written a book, "The Republican Party of 1850." Other books by Loesch include "Acquisition and Retention of a Law Practice," "Value of Legal Novels to a Lawyer" and "Shall the Law Triumph?"

Since his ordination as a priest of the Roman Catholic Church in the Lateran Basilica, Rome, Italy, Apr. 1, 1923, Father Edic has been assigned to various church duties. For the last two years he has been principal of the Catholic Boys' High School at Trenton, N. J.

Hearings Adjoined In Supervisors' Cases

By mutual consent of the district attorney's office and Francis Pennerthy, county attorney, counsel for two members of the Board of Supervisors, hearings scheduled for Thursday at the board's office have been adjourned to Aug. 27.

Supervisors Owen E. Murrill, Second Ward, Rome, and Clifford R. Russell, Third Ward, Augusta, were not present when the case was called last night by Justice of the Peace John P. Bender. William Pennerthy, who had Pennerthy appeared in their behalf.

Attorney with the two supervisors was Peter West, county supervisor of highways, who was charged with disorderly conduct. He is to have a hearing Aug. 3 before Bender.

District Attorney McGinly said his office agreed to the adjournment last night so that the still case may be disposed of first. There was no representation of the district attorney's office in Pennerthy's court last night.

Agree of Sitt and the board members occurred July 14 in Onondaga. Troopmaster Kevin and McGrath took the trio in custody following an argument with Officer Thomas Phillips, Oriskany, over a backseat.
